Sera tamen tacitis pœna venit pedibus. Tib.

IT is a ſingular Satisfaction to good and pious Men, to obſerve that the once Epidemical Vice of Swearing is at length grown unfaſhionable, and baniſh'd from the Converſation of all well-bred People, among whom it is now held to be as great a Piece of Rudeneſs as can be offer'd. Doubtleſs their Example will have an excellent Effect among thoſe of the Common People who yet make a Practice of it, eſpecially when ſuch conſider, that they are now more than ever accounted ſcandalous, and avoided as the Scum and Out-caſt of Mankind.

Whenever I conſider this helliſh Vice, I am ſtartled at the monſtrous Abſurdity of thoſe that practiſe it, who ought to be regarded as the meereſt Ideots in Nature. Thoſe who run Headlong into the Water or the Fire, and have no Senſe of Danger or Self-preſervation, we call Fools and Drivelers---- And are they wiſer who continually pray for their own Deſtruction?---- Can any Thing be more ſtupid?---- And ſhould not all who do ſo, even were there no Wickedneſs in it, be looked upon in the ſame Manner as if they wore Caps adorned with Bells and Aſſes Ears, a Dreſs which I'm ſure would be highly ſuitable to their Behaviour.

Every other Sin has ſome Temptation and Reward, either of Pleaſure or Advantage; but the Swearer is the Devil's Volunteer, he ſerves for nothing, and does not only liſt under his Banner gratis, but likewiſe finds his own Accoutrements. His Pretence, that he cannot help it, is not only frivolous but falſe; for, as an ingenious Writer juſtly as well as humourouſly obſerved, No one is born of a ſwearing Conſtitution.

Some pretend they ſwear becauſe they are provok'd, and in a Paſſion; which is no more than excuſing one Fault by another, and only makes it worſe. Others ſwear to make themſelves believ'd: But ſuch are ſtrangely out in Politicks, for it is a common Notion, that thoſe who ſwear will lie; and therefore, inſtead of gaining a Reputation, it generally brings in Queſtion the Truth of what they ſay; and with good Reaſon too, for his Credit muſt certainly be very low, who ſuppoſes, that without calling upon Heaven he ſhould not be believed. A common Swearer ought, I think, on no Occaſion, to be accepted as a Witneſs, or permitted to give his Oath in our Courts of Juſtice; for what Regard can he reaſonably be ſuppos'd to have for Oaths, what Conſideration of Duty towards his Neighbour, who uſes them continually in his Converſation, and ſets his God at nought?

Many, I believe, at firſt came into this vile Practice, from a Notion that it gives them an Air in Company, ſets off Diſcourſe with a good Grace, and makes them be taken Notice of:---- And ſo, indeed, it does, and avoided too, by all People in their Senſes, as a Parcel of Bullies, Rakes and Profligates; for no Civility can be expected towards Man, by ſuch as hourly affront their God; nor any Goodneſs or Humanity be hoped from thoſe who are every Moment wiſhing for their own Damnation.

The Heathens, with all their Ignorance, were never ſo prophane and impious as to make a Mockery of their Deities, by invoking them through Wantonneſs: Nor were they ſo wretchedly Senſeleſs, as to call for Curſes on their own Heads, though they ſometimes did ſo on their Enemies. Were they to hear the horrid Imprecations which are ſometimes uſed in our Streets, and knew the Meaning of them, they would imagine us to be downright mad; and without that Knowledge, would be apt to think of us, as a Native of Siam did, who reſided in London ſome Time, and ſent an Account of the Engliſh Cuſtoms to a Friend in his own Country. Take it in his own Words, as I find it in Hibernicus's Letters.

'The Inhabitants of theſe two Iſlands (Great Britain and Ireland) pretend to adore only one Supreme God, and to be entirely free from all Kinds of Superſtition: But I cannot believe the Profeſſions of theſe Infidels; for, beſides the living Deities to whom they daily offer their Vows, they have a Multitude of Others, whom ‘ whom they are every Moment calling upon; ‘ Demons with ſtrange and abominable Names ‘ that were never heard of on your Side of the ‘ Great Water. They are ever and anon ad- ‘ dreſſing themſelves to one or other of theſe ‘ Gods, and upon the moſt trifling Occaſions, ‘ and commonly in their Anger and Paſſion. ‘ There are ſo many of them, that it is almoſt ‘ impoſſible to reckon them up: However, ‘ there ſeems to be ſeveral Sorts of them. Some ‘ of the lower Ranks of them, ſuch as Lard, ‘ Egad, Ifackins, Odsbodikins, Udſlife, Afore ‘ George, Udſniggers, and Udſmelife, are called ‘ upon very familiarly, without any Shew of ‘ Devotion: Theſe ſeem to be look'd upon by ‘ them as a good-natured Kind of Beings, in ‘ Regard that the Women of the Country, ‘ and effeminate Perſons very like Women, ‘ are their frequent Worſhippers; their Child- ‘ ren are taught very early to adore them, and ‘ they ſtammer their Praiſes to them before ‘ they can well ſpeak.

‘ But there are other Beings, whom they ‘ regard more awfully, and pay Homage to ‘ with greater Devotion. Of this Number is ‘ he that they call Dammee, a powerful Demon, ‘ and had in great Veneration by the Soldiers ‘ and Seamen, and moſt of the meaner Sort of ‘ People, and ſome of the Mandarines too, ‘ who eſteem themſelves Men of Spirit; as is ‘ alſo another Demon, call'd Blood and Wounds. ‘ I have been often at a Loſs to underſtand ‘ what is their Opinion concerning this Divi- ‘ nity; becauſe I have ſometimes heard them ‘ ſplit his Name, and call him ſometimes only ‘ Blood, and ſometimes Wounds, and ſometimes ‘ in a Hurry they blunder out Blood and ‘ Wounds; ſo that I often imagined they wor- ‘ ſhipp'd ſometimes the one Half of him, and ‘ ſometimes the other; but at laſt I concluded, ‘ that they were two diſtinct Divinities, a ‘ Male and a Female, who being married toge- ‘ ther, they ſometimes invoke only Blood, and ‘ ſometimes Wounds; but if they are in Haſte, ‘ they pray to both Blood and Wounds toge- ‘ ther, according as their different Wants call ‘ for their Aſſiſtance; ſo that if Blood be out ‘ of Temper, or buſy, Wounds may do the ‘ Jobb alone.

‘ I have ſeen a Perſon, with much Devoti- ‘ on and Fervency of Spirit, chaſtiſe his Slave ‘ almoſt to Death, all the while calling for ‘ Aſſiſtance from Blood and Wounds. The ‘ Drivers of certain Machines, wherein the ‘ Rich and Lazy are drawn by Horſes, are ‘ likewiſe moſt religious Adorers of this Di- ‘ vinity. I alſo obſerved, that the Command- ‘ er of the Veſſel in which I was tranſported ‘ over the Great Water, never applied to any ‘ other Deity ſo much as to Blood and Wounds; ‘ yet ſometimes in the Heat of his Devotion, ‘ and Heighth of his Anger, he would pray ‘ to Dammee; and if in great Diſtreſs and Dan- ‘ ger, to one Dammee Blood, and Dammee Soul, ‘ which I take to be either two Brothers or ‘ two Sons of Dammee.

‘ But be they whom they will, I never per- ‘ ceived any Succeſs from Prayers made to ‘ them; and I never could find that they are ‘ invoked by any ſerious, honeſt, or ſober ‘ Men; nor by ſuch as I have named, except ‘ in the Heat of Paſſion, or in a Fit of Drunk- ‘ enneſs, at which Times Men are not in a fit ‘ Frame to call upon their Gods. Indeed, I ‘ have heard ſome in a very calm Mood call ‘ upon Dammee, and the reſt of his Relations; ‘ but then I perceived he did it without any ‘ Devotion, and only to paſs the Time away, ‘ or as a Parentheſis to his Diſcourſe. But ‘ ſuch Men are ever ſhun'd by the Virtuous ‘ and the Good that dwell amongſt them; and ‘ they in Return hate and perſecute them, ‘ when in their Power, and brand them for ‘ Hypocrites, for not worſhipping Dammee ‘ and Dammee Blood. But ſurely he muſt be ‘ the happy Man at laſt, that worſhips the ‘ only true God, who is ſo jealous of his Ho- ‘ nour, that he will not give it to another, ‘ however theſe Infidels, theſe Dammee Idola- ‘ tors, may deceive themſelves.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

BRUSSELS, July 3. Our Letters from Malines bring as tragical a Cataſtrophe of a Family, as was almoſt ever heard of. Two Brothers quarrel'd, and in Heat of Blood drew their Swords on each other. The Father went to part them, but was kill'd, with one of his Sons. The other is gone off.

PARIS, July 4. They write from Vendoſme, that they cannot travel the Country without Danger; that ſeveral Perſons, Men, Women and Children had been devoured by the Wolves, and alſo Cattle. The Governor has order'd Troops of Hunters of Townſmen and Villagers, conſiſting of 3000 Men; but notwithſtanding the Plenty the Country affords, they are not able to ſtart any Game; for they have not yet taken one of theſe Animals.

ROME, July 18. After four Months and ſome odd Days, the Conclave is terminated, much to the Satisfaction of the Generality of People, however it may be to the great Men of this World, who have uſed their utmoſt Endeavours to procure ſome Cardinal to be elected Pope that ſhould be moſt favourable to their Intereſt; but not to derogate from the Merit of many of the ſacred College, we may affirm, that Cardinal Corſini, now Pope, under the Name of Clement XII. is very worthy to ſit in St. Peter's Chair; and however Hereticks and Atheiſts may take Occaſion from the length of the Conclave, and the Wranglings of the Cardinals, to ſcoff and deride the Opinion, it will paſs with religious and pious Men for the immediate Work of the Holy Ghoſt, that ſo eminent a Perſon has been appointed to govern the Church: It is, however too notorious to be concealed that much Worldly-mindedneſs has reigned in this Conclave, perhaps more than in any other for ſome Ages paſt; for beſides that the Secular Intereſt of Princes has always been in view with ſome, private Intereſt, Piques and Reſentments have been ſo with others; and would to God this were all; but O Tempora! O Mores! 'tis commonly reported that Vices no way becoming ſuch an order of Men, aſſembled together on ſo ſolemn an Occaſion, have been too much in Practice: What ſeems moſt ſtrange is, that a publick Gaming Table ſhould be allowed in ſuch a Place, and large Sums of Money have been plaid for: Cardinal Schonborn, 'tis ſaid, loſt 70000 Crowns to Cardinal Ottoboni, and Cardinal Alexander Albani; but ſuſpecting ſome unfair Play, refuſed to pay, and 'tis believed left the Conclave on this Occaſion, tho' 'tis reported he came out ſick of a Fever: The Faro Bank was broke the Morning of the Election. Cardinal Fini having on a Time reproached the German Cardinals with Drinking, in the Hearing of Cardinal Zinzendorff, that Cardinal reſented it by giving him a Slap on the Face, whereupon a Fray enſued, in which ſome Attendants of the former were wounded, and had he not found Means himſelf to eſcape, his Life had been in Danger. But I ſhall caſt a Veil over the other Enormities practiſed in this Conclave, and ſhall only ſay, that if God did not over-rule by his Providence the Deſigns of ſuch Men, what Deſolations ſhould we ſee in the Church!

LONDON, Auguſt 4. His Majeſty has been pleaſed to appoint William Read, Eſq; to be his Agent and Conſul at Tripoli.

And James Sutherland, Eſq; to be Captain and Commander of his Majeſty's Fort called Fort Johnſon, near Charles Town in South-Carolina in America.

We hear there is Brine lately found for the making of Salt within two Miles of the City of Worceſter; and the Ground it is diſcovered in being not above ſeventy Yards from the River Severn, it is believed it will be the greateſt and moſt profitable Work in the Kingdom, it ſaving the Land-carriage both of Salt and Coals.

We hear that the laſt Expreſs from the Court of Spain brought nothing to forward the Diſpatch of the South-Sea Company's Ship Pr. William for Porto Bello, which ſtill continues in Long Reach: The Spaniards are very complaiſant, and promiſe fair, but it is feared that at beſt they will delay her Departure ſo long, as to prevent her arriving in New-Spain before the Galleons have ſold their Cargoes, and conſequently very much injure the Company in the Sale of their Goods; ſo that there is at preſent but little Proſpect of their reaping the Benefit which from the Peace might have been now expected, as a Reward for their long Sufferings by the Spaniards.

We hear from Wincheſter, that laſt Week the Mayors Wife died there, and before her Death order'd a large Pane of Glaſs to be fix'd in the Lid of her Coffin, over her Face, deſiring not to be interred till after eight Days: but the Body beginning to putrify by the heat of the Weather, her Friends, to ſatisfy her Requeſt and rid themſelves of an offenſive Smell, put her Coffin into the Grave, which was not fill'd up till after the limited Time, during which ſhe was daily viſited by Numbers, but none perceived any Reaſon for her Apprehenſion of being buried alive at Fourſcore Years of Age.

On Sunday Morning an unhappy Alarm happen'd in the Pariſh Church of St. Giles's in the Fields; a Pickpocket having been taken up by the Beadles over Night, and ſecured in the Round-Houſe, was attempting to break out in Sermon time; but ſome People obſerving him came running to the Church crying out Fryar! Fryar! (that being the Name of one of the Beadles) which ſurprized the Audience, that ſome thinking the Church had been on Fire, and others that it was falling down, by the Cracking of the Pews that was made by thoſe that endeavoured to get out firſt and burſt them open; the Miniſter jump'd out of the Pulpit; ſeveral had their Legs and Arms broke, and others were very much frighted.

New-Port, Rhode-Iſland, Octob. 23. Laſt Night in a ſerene, warm and pleaſant Time, about 7 o' Clock, there appeared an unuſual and ſupriſing Light in our Horizon, which increaſed till it ſhot its Rays up to the Zenith in Spires like Blood and Fire; the lower Parts being as high above the Horizon as the Sun ſeems to be at 3 Hours high. The Foot of the Appearance was from N. E. to N. W. paſſing ſouthward, and by 10 o' Clock it decreaſed very much, tho' the Horizon continued very light below it. It was viſible at 2 o' Clock in the Morning pitching into the ſouthern Horizon. The Figure of the ſaid Appearance ſeem'd to reſemble a Woman's Fan when open, the Handle upwards. The like Phænomena was never ſeen in this Place ſince the Engliſh ſettled here.

BOSTON, Octob. 29. Laſt Thurſday Evening we had the moſt ſurprizing Aurora Borealis, as tis thought was ever beheld here: At firſt it appeared with the northern Twilight, a bright Flame in the North Quarter of the Horizon. About half an Hour paſt 7, there ſhot up a Stream which collected into a Body, and ſeem'd to hang over us like a Cloud of Fire. This laſted a few Minutes, when it grew fainter till it diſappear'd: But ſtill the Light in the North continued ſo bright, that one might ſee to read in ſome large Print. About 9 o' Clock it increaſed again, and the Heavens here and there grew luminous and red. At 24 Minutes after 9, a Light was obſerved gathering in the N. E. which moving ſlowly to the Eaſt, began to glow very fierce. It roſe leiſurely, and at laſt crouded into a Center near the Zenith, whence in a few Minutes it branched out all over the northern half of the Hemiſphere, in the florid and ſparkling Colour of many Rainbows. It continued for about a Quarter of an Hour ſhifting its Form and Colours, and then by degrees grew fainter till it quite vaniſhed.

vifhed. For the Remainder of the Night, a ſettled Luſtre dawned round the northern Edges of the Hemiſphere, which kept flaſhing at Intervals, till it was loſt in the Morning Light.

New-Hampſhire, Octob. 23. Laſt Night there was a very great Appearance of the Aurora Borealis, intermixed with a great Variety of red Streams of Light extending from the N. to the NE and b E. The Brightneſs of the Sky was ſo very great that the ſmalleſt Print might plainly be diſcern'd: But as to the Cauſe of this Phenomenon, notwithſtanding the Lights, we are altogether in the dark.

PHILADELPHIA, November 12.

At a Court of Oyer and Terminer held here this Week, for the County of Philadelphia; Thomas Soames and William Pemock were indicted for Burglary and Felony; Soames pleaded Guilty, and received Sentence of Death; Pemock put himſelf upon Tryal, and was acquitted. Zechariah Field was try'd for counterfeiting Lyon Dollars, and found guilty of Miſpriſion of Treaſon; ſentenced to forfeit all his Goods and Chattels, &c. and to be impriſon'd during Life. John Crump and Sarah Porter were try'd for the Murder of Margaret Crump: John Crump was acquitted, and Sarah Porter remanded back to Priſon in order to a new Trial.
